

EX-CONVICT COMES TO DR. DAVIS'S AID

Report Written in Cell Will Upset Blackwell's Workshop System.

POINTS OUT WASTE OF $50,000 A YEAR

Freedom and Other Assistance Given to Prisoner as Reward for Disclosures.

A thorough overhauling and renovation of the workshops on Blackwell's Island and reforms in the general administration of the penitentiary are contemplated by Katharine B. Davis, Commissioner of Correction, as the result of a confidential report made to her through Burdette G. Lewis, her Deputy Commissioner, by a former prisoner in the penitentiary. The report, which was made by a man of education and considerable mental ability, shows that at least $50,000 is wasted annually in the shops and mess-hall because of carelessness and dishonesty.

Because of the assistance rendered to Commissioner Davis and to the grand jury which inquired into conditions on Blackwell's Island, a fine of $500 imposed upon the prisoner by Judge Norman S. Dike, of Brooklyn, in addition to imprisonment for eleven months and twenty-nine days, has been remitted, and he is now at liberty. The fine was remitted at the instance of members of the grand jury.

Since his release he has been helped by Commissioner Davis, District Attorney Whitman, Bishop Greer and members of the grand jury before whom he testified. The first day he was at liberty he made $40, and he has been uniformly successful. He has paid up the full amount of the worthless check he was convicted of passing. Believing that he is a man of unusual ability, and that thanks are due him for the services he has rendered, his friends have united to shield him from publicity.

Writes Report in Cell.

He was brought over from the island last winter as a grand jury witness. He was examined by Joseph Du Vivier, Assistant District Attorney, and appeared several times before the grand jury. Mr. Du Vivier's testimony in a report to Commissioner Davis. The prisoner spent two nights writing the report in his cell in the Tombs. It occupied more than six days.

Of the mess hall in the penitentiary he says that the food is good, though much of it is wasted. Much meat is thrown away because it is not sufficiently cooked. Fully 25 per cent of all the potatoes used to feed upward of a thousand prisoners are wasted. Of 2,000 slices of bread served daily at least one in each ration is wasted because of slicing it too thick. In bread alone the annual waste is $5,000.

"Lack of skill and consideration," he writes, "is responsible for fully $15,000 waste in the mess hall."

In the shoe shop he found that at least two pounds of brass nails, worth 20 cents a pound, went into the waste barrel daily. Prisoners fill their mouths with them when they start to spit a sole and when they wish to speak spit out the nails. After finishing their conversation they grab another mouthful of nails. He figures the daily loss in leather as follows:

Losses in Other Shops.

The workers in the tailor shop put in considerable time making shirts, pajamas, socks and other articles of clothing to sell to other prisoners for tobacco or forbidden luxuries. "The traffic is exceedingly large," he writes, "because of the pride of the prisoners in their personal appearance and the distribution of torn and worn-out garments to them in the prison. Also many a shirt and sock go to make tinder because matches are forbidden."

In the brush shop shaving brushes, hair brushes and bath brushes are sold to those who can pay cash or trade some equally valuable article for them.

There is a waste of fully 15 per cent in the bed shop, he says, because the mattresses are made too long. There is no attempt to adapt the mattresses to the size of the frames they are to fit. The waste in the bed shop he estimates at least $15,000 a year.

The farm, of about fifteen acres, he says, is conducted solely for the benefit of Warden Hayes and the keepers. Instead of raising potatoes, onions, cabbages and other vegetables to be served to the prisoners, the crops consist of strawberries, cantaloupes, cucumbers, choice varieties of tomatoes and others, such provender, which is consumed entirely by the warden and keepers. He admits that he has no first hand information regarding the farm, but bases his statements on what keepers and prisoners told him.

Last year, he says, 175 bushels of strawberries were picked. Small cucum-

MRS. A. H. WOODS.

MRS. WOODS WOULD LEARN WAYS OF LIGHT-FINGERED GENTRY

Will Pay $500 to Any One Who Will Show Her How Diamond Pendant Was Stolen from Her Neck.

Mrs. A. H. Woods, wife of the theatrical manager, is so anxious to learn just how some light-fingered person removed a jeweled ornament from her neck while she was standing on the pier watching the departure of her husband on the Mauretania on Tuesday that she is willing to pay $500 for the knowledge.

Mr. Woods called at 6 o'clock, and the next morning an advertisement appeared in the newspapers stating that Mrs. Woods would give the reward to "the man or woman who would show me how he removed my diamond-studded, oblong plaque." Answers were to be addressed to the Eltinge Theatre, of which Mr. Woods is owner.

Mr. Woods had not decided to go on the Mauretania until 8:15 o'clock. Then he telephoned Mrs. Woods to send down his travelling bag and to meet him at the dock.

Just before the gangplank was removed Mrs. Woods leaned over the rail and shouted to his wife: "I think I will get off," but his change of mind was made too late.

After Mrs. Woods left the ship Mr. Woods sent a steward ashore with a package. "Open it now," called the manager. "It is a farewell gift for you."

It turned out to be a diamond chain with oblong pendant studded with diamonds. Mrs. Woods attached it about her neck, but when she got home she discovered that some one had cut the plaque from the chain.

and the keepers refuse to open the doors. No spoons are provided to measure the dose ordered by the physician.

The daily "doctor's line-up" should be abolished, he says. It is the gathering place of "dope fiends" and those who have contraband articles to trade. The line is swelled by these malingers, who have no real ailment, but merely gather for forbidden traffic and conversation.

Consequently the real sufferers often have to stand in line until they are ready to faint before receiving any attention. By the time their turn comes the physician is so hurried and provoked at the "fakers" that he does not always give them the attention they need. It is a frequent occurrence for a prisoner to lose his dinner because of the time spent in the "doctor's line."

Commissioner Davis deems the report made by the ex-prisoner to be of great value. She has already acted upon some of his suggestions and is making a study of other conditions which he called to her attention.

Commissioner Kingsbury of the Department of Charities made public a report yesterday on the hospitals and institutions for the poor on Blackwell's Island. Such conditions as exist in the city's hospitals there would not be tolerated by the Board of Health for an instant in private institutions, he says. Conditions in the Metropolitan Hospital he describes as "shameful."

"From each of the unheralded night visits which I have paid to Blackwell's Island in order to acquaint myself with the conditions in my department," he says, "I have returned with the feeling that it was a place of misery instead of a comfortable refuge for the dependents of a great city."

DOG 'SICKED' ON HER; SUES FOR $5,000

Ten-Year-Old Girl Tells Court About Cherry Picking Trip in Forbidden Orchard.

Alice Casey, ten years old, told in the Supreme Court yesterday how Mrs. Addie L. German, wife of a leather manufacturer, "sicked" a bulldog on her when she tried to pick up some cherries in the defendant's orchard at Canarsie. William Casey, father of the little girl, is suing as her guardian, to recover $5,000 damages for the injuries inflicted by the dog.

"There were a lot of fat cherries on the ground," said Alice, "and as my girls thought we could have them. So I climbed the fence and began to pick up cherries. Pretty soon I saw a woman walking toward me. She brought the bulldog along and when she got close to me she said, 'sic 'em.' I ran to the fence and started to climb over. The other little girls screamed, but I couldn't climb over. The dog had hold of my right leg."

The witness said that the dog also bit her on the thigh. After the dog had bitten her, said Alice, Mrs. German said to her: "It's good for you; now it'll teach you a lesson."

The trial will be continued on Monday.

POLICE TO BLAME, FRESCHI CHARGES

Magistrate Condemns Them in Sentencing Last of I. W. W. Rioters.

COURTS READY TO PUNISH GUILTY

Novick Gets Ten Days After an Impassioned Speech in Broken English.

After sending Philip Novick, the last of the eight men arrested during the I. W. W. disturbance in Union Square on Saturday, to the workhouse for ten days, Magistrate Freschi announced yesterday the position which he had taken regarding such arrests.

"The responsibility is squarely where it belongs," he said—"on the police and not on the courts. A policeman's word is as good as any other person's, but it is not better."

Of the eight four were discharged, with the recommendation that their charges of police abuse be investigated; one was put on probation for a year; one must spend fifteen days in the workhouse or furnish a bond of $1,000 for his good behavior for six months; one got ten days, or $10, and Novick got ten days without any alternative.

"It has been said," said Magistrate Freschi, "that Berkman and others have preached the advisability of creating a riot next Saturday. Some have intimated that such disorder may arise by reason of my decisions in these cases."

"I want to say plainly that counselling the unemployed to defy the law, override the police and resort to violence is proof of bad faith and surely will result in terrible consequences. Magistrates will not treat the cases of these persons as lightly as possible. There is no cause for the police to feel discouraged. The law-abiding part of this community will get from me, without sentimentality, only just judgment. I will condemn lawlessness in every case where there is proof of a violation of law."

In sentencing Novick Magistrate Freschi commented on the manner in which he had "sneered his way through the trial." Once he stopped his talk to reprimand Novick for "sneaking." Novick himself made an impassioned address before being led out. He proclaimed his innocence and said that his word should have as much weight as that of the patrolman who arrested him.

Tumors of trouble at the Union Square meeting to-morrow were rife yesterday, but no agitator was willing to verify them.

PLEAD GUILTY AS OPIUM SMUGGLERS

Two Men Indicted in $1,500,000 Fraud Get Year and a Day in Prison.

Hugo Grobe, a former second officer employed by the North German Lloyd, and John Eyckman, a hotelkeeper of Hoboken, pleaded guilty yesterday in the federal court to an indictment charging conspiracy to smuggle upward of $1,500,000 worth of Persian gum opium into this country.

The scheme for evading the duty worked out by Grobe was to take the opium to Bremen, where it was to be shipped on North German Lloyd steamships by stevedores, who were to carry the "stuff" concealed in life preservers. On arrival in New York it was to be delivered by a passenger travelling in the interests of the conspirators.

Customs Inspectors Collins, Kyle and Lewis blocked the scheme last March by arresting Yee Sang, a Chinese importer, of 15 Mott st., and Yee Joe, one of his "runners." Large quantities of opium were confiscated and correspondence was discovered which led to the arrest of Eyckman and Grobe.

Roger A. Wood, Assistant United States District Attorney, told Judge Edwin S. Thomas that although Eyckman and Grobe had made full confession they had not divulged any information that might be used to break up the opium "trust." The court said the only extenuating circumstance was that the defendants had saved the government the cost of a long trial, and, as a "warning to others," he would sentence them to a year and a day each in the penitentiary at Atlanta.

15,000 MUST MARK TIME

New Watches, and Good Ones, Is New Haven Road Order.

[By Telegraph to The Tribune.] New Haven, Conn., April 9.—Following the revelation that there was unusual laxity on the New Haven Road regarding the watches carried by the men operating trains, as brought out in the North Haven wreck inquiry, C. L. Bardo, general manager, issued a peremptory order that all employees in the operating department must carry seventeen jewel open face watches.

A test of seventy-nine watches of various makes conforming in quality and style to the requirements has been given. This will affect 15,000 employees.

BRIDE HELD AS THIEF

Husband Aids in Arrest for Stealing $125 Brooch.

Walter Reider, of 794 Westchester ave., The Bronx, aided in the arrest of his bride of three months last night when he found that she was a thief. A $125 diamond brooch and a silver mesh bag belonging to Mrs. Mildred Taterka, of 479 East 139th st., were found in the wife's suitcase.

Soon after her marriage Mrs. Reider, who is eighteen years old, told her husband she would like to do a little work to help keep the home. She went as maid to Mrs. Taterka and left in four days.

When Detective Wagner described the missing jewelry to Reider he recognized it and gave his wife into custody. The young woman tried to jump out of the window of her home, but her husband dragged her back.

RAILROADS TO FORM INDUSTRIAL BUREAU

Will Collect Data and Do Work of Managers' Conference Committee.

As a result of the negotiations over the demands of their engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors, the Eastern railroads have decided to form a bureau to take up the work hitherto done by the managers' conference committee. The bureau will collect data as to wages and working conditions.

The secretary of the new bureau will be J. G. Wolber, assistant to the third vice-president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The new bureau was to have opened April 1, but has been delayed by Mr. Wolber's work as one of the arbitrators hearing complaints of misapplication of the award of the arbitration board. The arbitrators are expected to file their ruling on the complaints to-day.

It was not decided whether the managers' conference committee, which was appointed two years ago, would be abolished.

DR. DAVIS ENDS SMOKE BAN

Cigarettes Only Form of Tobacco Barred in Tombs.

By these presents let it be known to all men, including Dr. Pease, that Miss Katharine B. Davis, Commissioner of Correction, believes men should be allowed to smoke after their meals. And she'll do all in her power to see that guests at the Tombs may smoke. She'll try to discourage cigarette smoking, however.

Some time ago the use of tobacco in the Tombs was forbidden because drugs were smuggled into the prisoners. Yesterday an order was issued to the warden to permit smoking hereafter. The prison caterer will carry a case of pipes, cigars, leaf, roll and fine cut and chewing, etc., at reasonable rates, but no cigarettes.

"I believe the men should smoke if they want to," said Miss Davis.

MACMONNIES MAY BE SUED BY CITY

Park Commissioner Ward to Ask Completion of Fountain or Return of $10,000.

Unless Frederick MacMonnies, the sculptor, makes a definite statement regarding the progress of the Angelina Crane fountain for City Hall Park, Park Commissioner Cabot Ward will begin a suit for the return of the $10,000 MacMonnies received when the contract for the $30,000 fountain was awarded him five years ago and the contract may then be given to another sculptor.

This was the purport of a communication which has just been sent by Commissioner Ward to MacMonnies. It was on January 21 that The Tribune told exclusively of the long delay in the designing of the fountain. When the matter was brought to the attention of the Park Commissioner that day he said he would take steps to find out the cause of the delay and to get some satisfactory statement, in the mean time taking up the matter with the Corporation Counsel, as there was no time limit to the contract.

At the Park Department it was said yesterday that the Corporation Counsel had held that the fact that Mr. MacMonnies was so busy with other memorials—which was one of the reasons he advanced for the delay in a communication recently received by former Park Commissioner Henry Smith—was no reason why the fountain for the city should be delayed.

Mr. Smith was president of the Park Board when the contract was awarded to Mr. MacMonnies. He said it was impracticable to set a time limit for the completion of a work of art. The sculptor has a studio in Paris and another in a suburb of Paris.

Mr. Ward's letter also refers to the $20,000 insurance policy on the sculptor's life, on which the city is paying the premiums. In accordance with custom the policy was taken out when Mr. MacMonnies received the commission for the fountain, and the first payment of $10,000 made him. When the sculptor delivers the model of the basin, $20,000, on completion of the bronze work, $10,000 more, and the remainder on the acceptance of the entire fountain. Each year the premium on the insurance policy is being deducted from the money which is to fall due to Mr. MacMonnies.

The only trouble was that they were not sure they wanted to. Among the things Miss Cooke read were some from Tagore's play, "Chitra," and its amazingly advanced conception of woman and the grand feminine outburst which it ends made them feel that nose powder was—well, rather futile.

Miss Elmore Byrnes, chairman of the benefit, said she wasn't sure but she would buy instead boxes and arrows, or some other sporty equipment, instead of things just to beautify their faces.

Dredge Sucks Up Body

Captain Hanson of the large Madison fell from his craft yesterday as it was passing through the Newark Bay drawbridge of the Lehigh Valley Railroad and drowned. A man on the bridge threw a rope to the captain when he came to the surface, but it fell short and Hanson sank.

His body, cut in three places, was found on the meadows, nearly a half mile from the spot it had disappeared. It had been sucked up by a hydraulic dredge and forced through 5,000 feet of pipe.
